

Based on our research, our main advice for researchers and educators who aspire to implement a PD model from one country to another is to engage deeply with the content of the PD model and to have familiarity or experience in the country where the PD is being implemented.

Researchers who have conceptualized the the content of the PD model (e.g., the teaching practice of building)

Researchers who designed the PD model and implemented it with the participants

Participants who enacted the teaching practice in their classes
